Dream a Little Dream

Introducing a new mid-sized series of Dahlia with dark burgundy foliage and medium-sized, semi-double flowers in a range of luscious two-tone colors with a dark eye. Dahlias don't get any dreamier than this.

Dahlia hybrid DREAMY™

From left: Dahlia Dreamy Eyes, Fantasy, Fusion, Inspire, Moonlight, and Passion

A care-free, robust series for containers, window boxes or planted in the garden. Perfect size for a dahlia series – neither “short & dumpy” nor “big and rangy” – great for sale in quarts or gallons, with excellent presentation and retail appeal. Will work well in mixed containers or bedding for the consumer and flower non-stop from April until frost, never missing a beat. Tubers can be taken up in autumn and stored frost-free.

POT SIZE: 1 liner per quart, 3 liners per gallon pot

CROP TIME: About 8-10 weeks

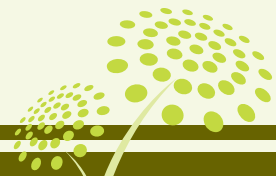

PLANTING: Pot Feb-March for April-May sales in quart pots, or later for summer sales. Soft pinch at planting or shortly thereafter.

SOIL MIX: Peatlite mix, neutral pH, good water and nutrient retention.

TEMPERATURE: Start warm (70-75°F) to establish and bulk, then finish cooler (50-55°F). Outdoor cultivation after last risk of frost possible and results in excellent finished quality

LIGHT: Best when grown under full sun conditions. Plants go dormant under short-day conditions, but flower under long days

PLANT GROWTH REGULATORS: Plants are well-branched and naturally compact, but PGR treatments recommended when flower buds start to develop to keep pedicels short and improve retail appeal.
